

Shahida Kazi, the first female correspondent in Pakistan dies

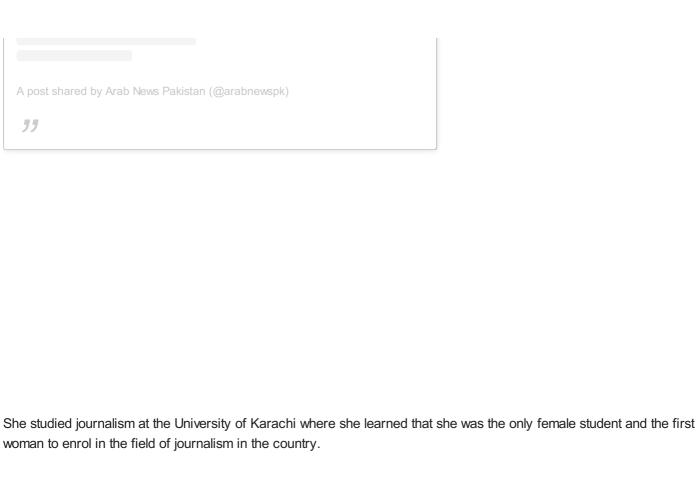

Pakistan's first female correspondent has died at the age of 79.

Shahida Kazi, the first female correspondent in Pakistan, has passed away. Source: YouTube.

Shahida Kazi died in Karachi from an illness.

In 1966 Kazi began working for Dawn, a leading English daily newspaper in Pakistan. She later worked as a news producer and senior news editor at Pakistan Television Corporation where she contributed for 20 years.

Earlier this year she published her autobiography, Sweet, Sour & Bitter: A life well lived.

For more, visit: https://www.bizcommunity.com