

Ogilvy gets "Creatively Imaginative"

As a remarkable 2006 draws to a close, Ogilvy Cape has reason to celebrate: A year filled with grand ideas that have translated into successful campaigns. So it only seemed fitting that the evening of November 6 be dedicated to all those creative imaginations - with fabulous delights shared by employees, clients and friends in a magically transformed Ogilvy 18 Roeland Street.

The enchanting Cape summer's eve welcomed everyone, as did the glorious Cosmopolitans. Ogilvy's internal creative talent was showcased with performances that included vocals, sax and the hottest dance sounds. By early evening, the party was rock 'n rolling on the chessboard dance floor. As the night progressed, spirits were high, people were "gold" and everyone seemed to forget it was a Monday night.
