

2009 D&AD design entry fee cut, juries announced

Announced by D&AD on Friday, 17 October 2008, was a price cut across design categories in order to encourage a diverse range of entries, as well as the members of the design juries for the D&AD Awards 2009.

For example, a single entry into graphic design has gone back to the 2005 price of £95/€150/$190.

Said D&AD president Garrick Hamm, "Thank you to everyone for agreeing to be foremen or on a jury this year. We've worked incredibly hard to find the right people for the job and are very proud of the final selection.

"However, in the end we can only do our bit. We've hired the room, set out the stall and in some places even made it cheaper. So now it's up to you to enter the work.

" I hope to see some truly inspirational work; work that sets new standards; work that hasn't been seen before. And work that has that 'F***, I'd wished I done that' about it. Then we can get the Pencils out."
