

Nicole Oliveira is Altron Karabina's new software services business unit lead

Altron Karabina has appointed Nicole Oliveira as its new software services business unit lead. She will be responsible for the Microsoft cloud solution provider, licensing solution provider and software asset management business.

She has more than 14 years' experience in the IT industry and is a specialist in software services, which makes her well positioned to lead this business unit, align strategic planning and goals and ensure customer success and service excellence. Prior to joining Altron Karabina, Oliveira was the general manager for software services at Dimension Data Brighthouse and was responsible for the Microsoft and Mimecast licensing and software asset management business.
