As companies look towards new ways to streamline their workflow, mobile phones are making huge waves in the corporate world. Not only is mobile changing the way we socialise and shop, but it is also adding value to corporates.

We noticed that many retailers, banks and merchants are trying to make mobility in the workplace work for them. From this, The Enterprise Mobility Show Africa was born and aims to make the biggest disruptor in the office - the mobile phone - a success for you and your employees.

Although there has been a slow uptake of mobile by corporates so far attributed to costs and connectivity hurdles, Africa's mobile growth is increasing at an exponential rate. With this comes big opportunities for enterprises to incorporate the use of smartphones and tablets into their operations.

From "Bring your own device" (BYOD) to building a unique strategy for your IT needs, the Enterprise Mobility Show Africa will make sure you leave with enough insight to implement a successful enterprise mobility plan in your office, supply chain and payments.

This is the event where you source your knowledge and your solution providers for your enterprise mobility strategy.

With all of these mobile and innovative disruptors in one place, you wouldn't want to pass the opportunity of attending Enterprise Mobility Africa 2016. It is the perfect solution for customising your business to be more mobile and on demand. And best of all - attendance is free.
