

Wyzetalk recognised at Africa Tech Week Awards

Wyzetalk, an employee engagement company that has built its own patented mobile, USSD and app technology solution, enabling businesses to connect and communicate effectively and efficiently with their workforces including non-desk workers, has been named Best Digital Company at this year's Africa Tech Week Awards.

Africa Tech Week, which took place in Cape Town earlier in March, brought together business leaders who are influencing technological change in South Africa and disrupting the status quo across all industries. The awards recognise the achievements of organisations and individuals that are using technology to deliver real results and return on investment for businesses in Africa. The awards shine a spotlight on those who are creating and using digital platforms to create more profitable and connected businesses across Africa.
