

Nal'ibali supplements now available in Setswana, Xitsonga

Nal'ibali's literacy newspaper supplements will now include editions in Setswana and Xitsonga. The supplements are made possible through a media partnership with Tiso Blackstar, which produced the bilingual newspaper supplements every two weeks during school term time.

The material in the supplement includes stories, literacy activities, reading and reading club tips and support, and is aimed at making reading and storytelling meaningful, enjoyable, and accessible. Several Tiso Blackstar titles distribute 147,600 reading-for-enjoyment supplements fortnightly, while 53,000 supplements are also distributed free of charge through Tiso Blackstar Education directly to reading clubs, community organisations, libraries, schools and other partners.
